

Complaints to the BBC: December 2014

The BBC answered just over 14,000 complaints from the audience during December 2014. These ranged from a small number of complaints about alleged breaches of editorial guidelines through to a much larger collection of views about programme content and services.

Topics raised included complaints about the proposal to move BBC Three to an online service.

The BBC's responses to some recent issues can be read on the BBC Complaints website.